APPENDIX.

PREFACE.

In 1872 was organized the higher instruction in Arts and Sciences at this University, which resulted in the permanent establishment of the Graduate Department or School, and in 1873 the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was conferred for the first time. In the following list are printed the names of all those who may be regarded as Graduates of this School. Their studies have been carried on under the general direction at first of the Academic Council of the University (1872–1889), and afterwards of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. With a few exceptions all these persons have been members of what is now known as the Graduate School.

This list includes only such holders of the higher degrees — Ph.D., S.D., A.M., and S.M. — as have received their degrees after examination and a residence at the University of at least one year. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy and that of Master of Science, which was established in 1897, have never been given as honorary degrees at Harvard University; the degree of Doctor of Science, however, has been so conferred, as also that of Master of Arts.

There are or have been, in fact, six classes of Master of Arts of this University: — holders of the degree (1) honoris causa; (2) ad eundem; (3) in course, i.e. Bachelors of three or more years' standing, on the payment of a fee; (4) with a professional degree, but without additional study or residence; (5) with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; and (6) pro meritis, conferred after residence and examination upon candidates approved by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, or — before 1890 — the Academic Council. The A.M. ad eundem ceased to be conferred early in the present century; the A.M. in course has not been given since 1872; the A.M. with a professional degree but without additional study was conferred only from 1883 to 1895, both years inclusive; and the Ph.D. carried with it the degree of A.M. only from 1877 to 1892. At the present time the only degrees of Master of Arts conferred by Harvard University are the A.M. honoris causa, and the A.M. pro meritis. The present list, so far as this degree is concerned, contains the names of the latter kind of Masters of Arts.

The information here given about the holders of the higher degrees is in substance what would appear in the Quinquennial Catalogue revised to date — see the Catalogue for 1895, pp. 67, 68 — with certain additional statements about residence and occupation. This comprises: (1) names and post-office addresses of living graduates, or — in the case of those who have died — the date of death and age at death; (2) academic degrees received, with dates, — arranged in chronological order; (3) positions held — similarly arranged — chiefly in colleges and universities; (4) memberships in certain learned societies, and (5) professions or occupations.

All who use this Catalogue are earnestly requested to send corrections and additional information to the Dean of the Graduate School, Harvard University.

March 3, 1900.

NOTE.

Where a degree or a position is named without special designation of College or University the reference is to Harvard University. Positions at this University held by annual appointment only are not ordinarily mentioned.

The particular departments of knowledge wherein Doctors of Philosophy and Doctors of Science obtained their degrees are indicated immediately after their names and addresses; and in the case of Masters of Science the Divisions of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences are named upon whose special report the recommendations for the degree were made.

In the case of graduates who have taken more than one of the higher degrees, the full record is given under the degree last received, with a cross reference under the earlier degree.

Graduates who received their degrees out of regular order are placed each under the year in which the studies for the degree were completed, the date when the degree was conferred immediately following the name and address.
